In wedding presents a scent sprinkler in the form of a silver flower pot is a novelty.

The "Russian bracelet" is the new-est. It consists of a diamond chain with large uncut emeralds.

Pearl dog collars are quite the rage. These display an uneven number of rows of small pearls, with diamond bars at intervals. They are mounted on velvet of some dark shade-such as ruby, blue or black.

Turquoise necklaces are twisted into the hair a la Grecque, giving especially effective results when twined among light locks. Strings of colored stones are also used for looping up short sleeves, or to sustain the lorgnette.

It is quite a fad now to carry the pocket scent bottle. Oddities in this line are constantly appearing. Some are in gold enamel, others in crystal with ruby tops, and one to be carried inside the glove is in the shape of a partridge's The head of the little partridge just hatching forms the opening.

A French Laundry Note.

In France instead of using starch on table napkins after they are washed and dried and ready to be ironed, they are dipped in boiling water and partially wrung out between cloths. They are rapidly ironed with as hot a flat iron as possible without burning them.

TWISTS, COILS AND BANGS.

Hair Dressing Rules With Which All Women Should Be Familiar.

Only women with faces inclined to be long and narrow, says the New York World, should wear their hair parted in the middle, and then it should be waved full on the sides to give breadth to the head. Women with full faces should part their hair on the left side. A becoming effect, giving character to the face is produced by brushing it up high on the right side.

A woman with the face of a goddess and a small shapely head, looks well with her hair parted in the middle, unwaving, and with a simple imperial knot at the back. The women who cling to those familiar little love-locks, vulgarly known as bangs, should regard their faces with more serious interest, because certain cuts of dimpled face should have a round bang. She should wear it a full inch above the eyebrows, because when it is longer it shortens her face, giving it greater width than length. Women with long, oval faces should wear pointed bangs, a trifle longer in the middle than on the sides.

Women with low foreheads should dress their hair high, while women with high foreheads should do exactly the opposite. To low foreheads it is particularly becoming to part the hair at the side. Only very young girls can be-comingly wear the straight bang.

The way of wearing the hair in the back should depend greatly upon the height and figure of the wearer, but esthe chang of the head Short women should wear their hair high on the top of their head, or on the crown; while tall women should wear their hair low, either in the neck or at the back.

The Cleopatra coiffure is an elaborate affair, and only suitable for very dress occasions. It is a narrow, long coil on the back of the head. Above the coil a thick twist of the hair is shaped like a hoop, and held in place by some jeweled ornament. Little curls are worn coming from the middle of the coil, and sometimes very small ones extend from

LIVELY MISS MASU TATENO.

A Little Japanese Girl Who Jumps the Rope and Plays "Hide and Seek."

Washington Post.

Masu Tateno, the little daughter of his imperial Japanese Majesty's minister to the United States, is very pretty, possessing the highest type of Japanese beauty, with a straight, well developed little figure, and black hair and eyes. Then she is quick witted, loving and polite. This last characteristic, which is so apparent in the Japanese people, she has to a remarkable extent.

Each day when the weather permits this little maid plays in front of the Japanese legation at 1310 N street, northwest, in Washington, with her little American brothers and sisters. She is now quite at home at the capital and jumps the rope, plays "hide-and-seek," and enters into the other pastimes of the juvenile portion of our population with as much enthusiasm and enjoyment as she would if she were in her native clime and surrounded by the boys and girls of her own race.

She will remain in this country with her father until his return a year from now to "Toyo-ashi-wara-no-chai-aki-no-nago-i-ho-aki-no-nuzu-ho-kuni," which means "The Luxuriant Reed Palms; the Land of Fresh Rice Ears; of a Thou-sand Streams; of Song; of Five Hundred Autumns;" that is to say, Japan.

RECIPES. Raised Waffles .- Scald one and three-quarter cups of milk, add half a teaspoonful of salt and one tablespoonful of butter. When lukewarm add one-quarter of a cake of compressed yeast, dissolved in one-quarter of a cup of lukewarm water. Add two whole eggs, well beaten, or the yolks of three or four. Pour this liquid mixture gradually into one pint of bread flour, beating all the time, and continue beating from five to ten minutes. This batter should be mixed late at night and stirred down the first thing in the morning, lest it should sour. Be care-ful not to leave it in too warm a place over night, and remember that it will rise a second time rather quickly in the warm kitchen. If no eggs are used this waffle will still be very good, although they are more liable to stick to the waffle iron. The addition of a teaspoonful of sugar to the latter will make them brown quicker, if they are desired dark-er in color. To bake them, heat the waffle iron over a clear fire; it cannot be turned on top of the range. Grease thoroughly with fresh lard, turning the iron that both sides may be equally heated and greased. Pour in sufficient batter to cover the iron and shut the upper side directly down, that the waffle may be kept in good shape. Bake about two minutes on each side, remove to a hot plate and serve with sugar and butter, with maple syrup or lemon

Creamed Lobster.

This is Marion Harland's recipe: The meat of one good sized lobster, cut, not chopped, into inch long bits, one cup of nilk, one cup of butter, two heaping teaspoonfuls of corn starch rubbed into a tablespoonful of butter. Put the milk and cream together, add a pinch of soda to prevent curdling and make scalding hot in a farina kettle. While the milk is heating season the lobster to taste with salt and cayenne pepper; stir it into the hot milk, add the corn starch and butter and bring all to a boil, stirring all the while. When the milky part has become like thick cream remove the kettle and set aside the contents to cool. Just before lunch butter scallop shells, if you have them; if not, an ordinary pudding dish, and fill with the mixture. Sprinkle fine bread crumbs over the top, dot with bits of butter, set in the oven and bake to a delicate brown. Eat while very hot.

GOLDEN COW BELLS.

Bos's Tinkler Lifted into the Realm of Æstheticism.

Golden cow bells are among the wedding favors given by English bridegrooms to the bridesmaids, the bell fastened to a curb brooch. A curb brooch is made of four or five links of a chain firmly held together. The ordinary iron cow bell of the hardware shop is greatly esteemed here as a fancy to hang up in a girl's room, where it may tinkle in the winds that ought to blow through the most cherished apartment. A sort of rustic charm attaches to these homely objects. Bronze cow bells are used as paper weights and are among the few new things one can give to a man.

To Chase a Cold Off One's Chest.

An excellent remedy for a chest cold, used promptly, is a poultice of hot onion. The onions should be sliced and stewed in lard till somewhat tender and very hot. Then put them in a bag already prepared, take two or three stitches in the end and apply where the distress is most evident. This done distress is most evident. This done while waiting for a physician will often avert a serious attack.—Providence Jour-

CLARKSBURG, W. VA., Jan. 9.—The mysterious death-of Lummie Coffman, who died very suddenly a few days ago, is somewhat explained this evening by the coroner's jury bringing in a verdict that she came to her death from a criminal operation performed by Dr. S. L. Baxter, of this city. Baxter has been arrested on two different warrants, charging him with abortion and murder. A Liberal Offer.

DEADWOOD, S. D., Jan. 9.—The Deadwood Athletic Club last night decided to offer a purse of $50,000 for the Corbett-Mitchell fight. The club means business, and if the offer is accepted will construct a pavilion to accommodate 12,000 people.

The volume of business on the stock exchange to day was lighter even than on yesterday, and accompanying the duliness was marked debression, which, except during one or two prief intervals when slight rallies took piace, prevalled throughout the day. Sugar was most prominent in the dealings and furnished nearly a third of the total transactions. In the early dealings the common stock rose 1½ per cent on purchases induced by Washington reports favorable to an increased tariff on sugar and also by the improvement in the trade. But the improvement was short lived, the failure of a majority of the stock to be reported at the annual meeting called for to-day thereby preventing the holding of the meeting, having a depressing influence on the shares and sending the common down 3% and preferred 1½ per cent. In the late dealings the common rallied 1 per cent. St. Paul was sold in good sized blocks ou the belief that the earnings of the road for the first week in December would show a 'scrious decrease. One of the causes of the heavy buying in the provision pit and the subsequent advances was the failure of expected heavy receipts to materialize.
